

Take Back Your Unwanted, Unused, or Expired Medications

Learn more at www.TakeBackYourMeds.org

The Risks:

- In Washington State, almost 11% of teens use medicines for non-medicinal reasons – a rate that's among the highest in the nation.
- About half of the 37,000 phone calls to Washington Poison Center concern young children who have been poisoned by medicines found at home.
- Drugs that are flushed end up in our waters. Drugs thrown in the garbage are available for others to take and use, and can harm the environment. Take them back to properly dispose and keep the environment safe.

What You Can Do:

- Lock up and monitor prescription medications in the home.
- Use a take-back program for disposal.
- Let your children know taking prescription drugs not prescribed to them is dangerous.
